

Tenure Track Assistant/Associate Professor of Supply Chain Management - The University of Tennessee, Knoxville

Job opening for a Tenure Track Assistant/Associate Professor of Supply Chain Management (Fall 2024) at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville

The Department of Supply Chain Management; Haslam College of Business and the Howard H. Baker Jr. School of Public Policy and Public Affairs at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville seeks nominations and applications for a Tenure Track Assistant/Associate Professor of Supply Chain Management.

This position is part of a university-wide cluster hiring initiative on Mobility with goals to foster transdisciplinary research and education. The position has an objective to lead research agenda in Transportation Economics and Policy. The ideal candidate will have research interests in state and federal transportation policy, transportation economics and economic development, transportation flows, transportation sustainability policy, computational methods for transportation research, transportation safety, policy and/or behavioral transportation research.

This is a 9-month, tenure track position with a 75% research and teaching appointment in the Supply Chain Management Department in the Haslam College of Business and a 25% policy research appointment in the Baker School for Public Policy and Public Affairs.

Anticipated start date for this position is August 2024. Interested candidates can check out full details and apply for the position at: <https://apply.interfolio.com/127888>